Hong Kong Housing Society - Property Management Division

Environmental Policy

The Property Management Division (PMD) of Hong Kong Housing Society commits to continually improving her environmental performance in design and provision of property management services. PMD has established and implemented an Environmental Management System which satisfies ISO 14001 requirements by adhering to the following environmental protection principles and practices:

- To prevent pollution and to protect the environment by taking preventive measures, conserving natural resources and minimizing wastes.
- To comply with applicable environmental legislations and subscribed requirements.
- To seek continuous environmental improvements through the establishment of environmental management, objectives, targets and programmes.
- To encourage co-operation and joint effort with suppliers and contractors, residents and tenants in the promotion and implementation of good environmental management practices.
- To enhance environmental awareness and knowledge of PMD's environmental policies and practices among staff members, suppliers, contractors and other interested parties via training and internal and external communication.

The Environmental Management Representative is responsible for the overall implementation and maintenance of the environmental management system and to ensure effective implementation of this policy.

This policy should be understood, implemented and maintained by all members of PMD.
